Sunshine, conducted by W.M. Whittemore [and others].

Thelma and Louise get sporty (and survive) in this anthology of true stories about women whose idea of fun involves sharing adventures--big and small--in the great outdoors. In essays that not only take you to mountains, forests, lakes, and rivers but also explore the powerful and intimate bond of female companionship, the editor of Solo: On Her Own Adventure introduces sixteen daring women and their travel mates as they ski, climb, hike, bike, and drive all over the world. Trudge through the muddied roads of Australia's outback with thirty-something Sara Corbett and her childhood chum to find the legendary 80-year-old woman rumored to split wood faster than any man who challenges her. Go fishing with Holly Morris, kick back with Pam Houston and a good friend at a Denver ranch, or bike with Diane Ackerman and her friend through the "aubergine drapery of the forest" as they circumnavigate Otsego Lake. Hop in the car with Mary Morris and her baby daughter to meet the eccentrics living in the California desert, and climb the Himalayas with 54-year-old Jean Gould and her 70-year-old travel partner. Whether you are an armchair adventurer or a thrill seeker in your own right, these exhilarating essays will inspire you to dust off your bicycle, lace up your hiking boots, fill your gas tank, and take your dearest friend along for the time of your lives.

The Land of Sunshine

"Sunshine Mackenzie is living the dream: she's a culinary star with millions of fans, a line of #1 bestselling cookbooks, and a devoted husband happy to support her every endeavor. And then she gets hacked. When Sunshine's secrets are revealed, her fall from grace is catastrophic: she loses the husband, her show, the fans, and her apartment. She's forced to return to the childhood home--and the estranged sister--she's tried hard to forget. But what Sunshine does amid the ashes of her own destruction may well save her life"--Amazon.com.

The Advance

The Sardine Trail by Emmett E. Kennedy The Sardine Trail tells the tale of a trio of young men heading out in search of gold, diamonds and women. The lady would be at the front of the list, but we knew we needed some of the first and second to try for the third. We quit our jobs in the winter of 1954 and headed for Alaska. She was a territory then, but we didn't care. That was where the riches were, so it was a win-win event. Things didn't develop as we'd planned, but a few of the dreams eventually surfaced. The trip and mission proved to be staggering, but we were determined and we hit Alaska after many weeks on the trail. Now, some sixty-odd years later, I choose to recall the tale and put it on paper. Just travel with us and enjoy the ups and downs of the journey.

From Newbery Honor and Coretta Scott King Author Award winner Renée Watson comes the first book in a young middle grade series about Ryan Hart, a girl who is pure spirit, kindness, and sunshine. Ryan Hart has a lot on her mind--school, self-image, and especially family. Her dad finally has a new job, but money is tight. That means some changes, like selling their second car and moving into a new (old) house. But Ryan is a girl who knows how to make sunshine out of setbacks. As her brother says when he raps about her, she's got the talent that matters most: it's a talent that can't be seen, she's nice, not mean! Ryan is all about trying to see the best in people, to be a good daughter, a good sister, a good friend. But even if her life isn't everything she would wish for, when her big brother is infuriating, her parents don't quite understand, and the unexpected happens, she always finds a way forward, with grace and wit. And plenty of sunshine. Acclaimed author Renée Watson writes her own version of Ramona Quimby, one starring a Black girl and her family, in this start to a charming new series.

Shipmates in Sunshine

"The last American frontier lay in the dry region of the Dakotas and Montana, a land that had been invaded from the south in the 1880's and 1890's by the open range cattle and sheep interests. Into this dry region came the homesteaders from the Midwest and from Europe seeking free land. Known by the cattlemen as the "wool hat people" they swarmed west of the Missouri River after 1890, built their sod houses, plowed up the prairies, and planted their crops. Many of them failed because of drought and grasshoppers, or went back because of the struggle, the loneliness, the hard life. One of the thousands who moved to this dry frontier west of the Missouri was Grace Fairchild. She had grown up in Wisconsin, graduated from Platteville Normal with a teacher's certificate, and had gone to Parker, South Dakota (east of the Missouri) to teach school in 1898. There at Parker she married Shiloh Fairchild, a widower much older than she, and in 1902 the Fairchilds went west of the Missouri seeking a homestead. They took up a claim of 160 acres in the old Sioux Indian cession, not far from the present Philip. Married to a man not fitted to be a pioneer farmer, she took on increased responsibilities as the years went by, and finally separated from her husband. When she left the ranch, she owned 1440 acres of South Dakota land. This is the story of a strong woman who succeeded on a harsh frontier where failure was common. South Dakota State University recognized her in 1952 with the title of Eminent Homemaker and now her picture hangs in the Hall of Fame. Few books tell the story of a woman pioneer who was a mother, a manager, a creative force in the building of her part of the last frontier. This is Folk History told through the original notes of a Frontier Woman."--BOOK COVER.

Brennan "A Bad Day For Sunshine is a great day for the rest of us."—New York Times bestselling author Lee Child Sheriff Sunshine Vicram finds her cup o' joe more than half full when the small village of Del Sol, New Mexico, becomes the center of national attention for a kidnapper on the loose. Del Sol, New Mexico is known for three things: its fry-an-egg-on-the-cement summers, strong cups of coffee—and, now, a nationwide manhunt? Del Sol native Sunshine Vicram has returned to town as the elected sheriff—thanks to her adorably meddling parents who nominated her—and she expects her biggest crime wave to involve an elderly flasher named Doug. But a teenage girl is missing, a kidnapper is on the loose, and all of this is reminding Sunshine why she left Del Sol in the first place. Add to that the trouble at her daughter's new school, plus and a kidnapped prized rooster named Puff Daddy, and, well, the forecast looks anything but sunny. But even clouds have their silver linings. This one's got Levi, Sunshine's sexy, almost-old-flame, and a fiery-hot US Marshal. With temperatures rising everywhere she turns, Del Sol's normally cool-minded sheriff is finding herself knee-deep in drama and danger. Can Sunshine face the call of duty—and find the kidnapper who's terrorizing her beloved hometown—without falling head over high heels in love or worse?
